Congress eyes $3.9 million for tri-county CETA work

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
The United States Congress is debating the appropriation of approximately $3.9 million to the tri-county area of Hancock, Harrison and Stone under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).
"You've got to understand that figure is an estimate, it's still up to the House and the Senate to set the amount," stated Andy Cutler, executive director of the Gulf Coast Employment and Training Administration Friday.
That administration is one of 480 prime sponsors under the CETA program.

CETA provides funding for programs: Title II, Title II B, Title II C, Title II D, Title III, Title IV, Title VI and Title VII.
Title II B, or comprehensive employment and training services, finances vocational education, on-the-job training and apprenticeship programs. The program also allows persons to get work experience.
Title II B funds are used to hire state employment services which in turn educate potential workers on how to find a job in addition to supplying counseling.

Under Title II C or upgrading and retraining, funds are supplied to further train workers making them eligible for higher-paying jobs.
Title II D or public service employment "will make available about 210 economically disadvantaged CETA workers for public service employment if the $3.9 million is appropriated," Cutler stated Friday.

Cutler added the Title II C program does not make work "we provide workers for cities and counties with budget limitations which can not afford to hire persons for a needed position."
National program activities or Title III provides a set amount of money, appropriated by congress, to the U.S. Secretary of Labor. "Special programs for the handicapped are eligible for those funds," Cutler explained. The tri-county area will be "lucky" if it gets any of those funds.

Title IV or youth programs is responsible for supplying intensive counseling and training to 16 through 21-year-olds. Helping youth acquire their general equivalency diploma and employment in conservation improvement programs is an additional function under Title IV.

"Youth have a harder time getting employed than any other segment of our population. The minority youth unemployment rate is 10 times the regular youth jobless rate," Cutler added.

Title VI or Public Service Employment is not very different from Title II D, except that Title VI requires persons be unemployed for a shorter amount of time before they are eligible for Title VI benefits.

"Title VI was established to stimulate the economy through counter cyclical employment. People were getting laid off the job not because they were not capable, but because of economic reasons," Cutler explained.

"Unemployment causes people to go on welfare and other programs that deduct money from the federal treasury. If people are employed, more money goes into the treasury and less goes out," the director continued.

Title VII or private sector initiative program's emphasis is to gear training activities toward the private sector.

"Five out of every six jobs are in the private sector," Cutler remarked.

Bay board gives secret deposition

By RICH ADAMS
The public and press were banned from a deposition hearing in connection with a $20,000 suit filed against the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board and Superintendent J.D. McCullough Friday as attorneys for both sides requested secrecy.

Results of the hearing, however, will be made public record at a later date, according to Gerald Blessey, attorney for the plaintiffs in the case.

Blessey represents the North Bay Parent-Teacher Organization; the Bay St. Louis Local, American Federation of Teachers; and school patrons Charles Gottschalk, Mrs. Elmer Boyd, and Gloria Holland.

The group is asking $20,000 in punitive damages from the school board and superintendent due to the "deliberate and intentional denial of the plaintiffs' civil rights," according to a suit filed Aug. 14 in the U.S. District Court, Southern District of Mississippi.

The suit alleges that the board's controversial Policy 18 and a recent policy which regulates mechanical reproduction of school minutes and journal sheets are unconstitutional.

Both Blessey and Board Attorney Lucien Gex said Friday they did not want the press admitted to the deposition hearing, adding the information obtained during the hearing will be made public record at a later, unspecified date.

The hearing is the first step taken following filing of the suit and a DEPOSITION—PAGE 2

Zoning body axes plant relocation

By EDGAR PEREZ
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday recommended against a requested US-90 zoning change from commercial to medium industrial, effectively blocking relocation of a ready-mix cement plant at that artery.

The commission also passed a motion urging the city council to change the US-90 speed limit within Bay city limits to 40 miles-per-hour.

Mrs. A. W. Dantagnan, representing interests of Herndon Coats of Jackson, Ala., owners of a parcel at US-90 and Washington Road, said the parcel could be sold if the zoning were changed from C3 to I2.

Mrs. Dantagnan said operators of a cement plant on US-90 across from Seaford's Wheel Inn have lost their lease and offered to purchase her clients' property to relocate their plant.

The present location of the plant has been purchased for erection of a Cinema I & II facility by Ogden-Perry Theaters.

Some 30 residents and owners and operators of businesses in the area of the proposed zoning change appeared at Thursday's commission meeting at City Hall to protest the zoning change and more specifically relocation of the cement plant.

Roland Tallac presented the commission with a petition signed by 77 residents and businessmen in the area objecting to the zoning change.

"I think you have demonstrated the feelings of the community on this matter," said commission member Joe Marchino after several of those present expressed their concern over possible location of a cement plant in their area.

"We live, after all, in a politicalized society and if enough people show they want something in a certain way, the politicians are likely to also see it that way," Marchino said in explaining the commission's action must be approved by the city council.

Tallac said the existing cement plant is a traffic and health hazard, and others, RELOCATION—PAGE 2

DuPont expects permit renewal

By EDGAR PEREZ
The Mississippi Department of Natural Resources' Bureau of Pollution Control has issued a public notice announcing its intent to renew a National Pollution Discharge System permit for DuPont's titanium dioxide plant on the north shore of Bay St. Louis.

Plant Manager G. B. Howell said he was notified Friday of the bureau's plan to renew the permit which expires Dec. 31.

"This permit allows the discharge of treated process waste as clear, warm salt water effluent to St. Louis Bay and metal chloride solutions to two-mile deep disposal wells," Howell explained.

"This anticipated renewal is on the most stringent permit for any T102 plant in the United States, and is virtually the same as the one issued in February, 1975 with the exact same effluent limitations," the executive continued.

THE NPDES permits, established by the Federal Clean Water Act, are issued in Mississippi by the Bureau of Pollution Control, and must be reviewed and reissued periodically with an opportunity for public comments.

Howell said DuPont's DeLisle permit application was submitted to the bureau and reviewed by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The permit is one of more than 30 required from various state and federal agencies for construction and operation of the DeLisle plant, Howell pointed out.

The plant, under construction since 1976, recently began commercial production of TiO2, an inert white pigment used to impart whiteness to paint, plastics, textile fibers and other products.

The plant's 1975 NPDES permit application was the subject of 14 days of public hearings in 1977 which resulted in additional Bay monitoring requirements and clarified permit wording.

"Plant design and operation were unchanged and permit limitations remained the most stringent in the industry," Howell stated.

"We anticipate final approval of our DUPONT—PAGE 2

Waveland parents picket for head lice fumigation

By RICH ADAMS
A group of disgruntled mothers formed a picket line in front of Waveland Elementary School Thursday in protest of what they consider improper treatment by school officials of an outbreak of head lice among pupils.

The 11 women, all carrying various signs of protest, said their main gripe is that they were allegedly not told about the lice until 12 days after the outbreak was discovered by school officials.

Now the picketers say they will remain in front of the school until Waveland Elementary and all buses in the system are fumigated and the lice problem has been eliminated.

James Baldree, principal of the school, said Thursday that everything possible is being done to eliminate the outbreak of the parasite, and added the lice has been a common seasonal occurrence since he came to this area in 1977.

"This problem has been showing up for years," Baldree said Thursday.

Mary Waterman, spokesman for the protesters, said Baldree sent a newsletter to parents on Oct. 10 informing them "several cases of Pediculosis (Head Lice) have been identified in our area," allegedly 12 days after some students were discovered to be infested by the lice.

"Our main gripe is that students were sent home for treatment 12 days before the newsletter was sent out and we were not informed," Waterman said.

"If we would have known then, we could have checked our children or had them checked prior to returning to school," she continued.

"(Baldree) did not inform parents, and that is our main concern," she added.

Baldree said he sent the newsletter out to "advise the parents the parasite was becoming widespread among the entire area and urging them to take proper precautions."

Waterman said children who are determined to have the parasite sent home and treated, but are re-infested after returning to school.

She said this is allegedly due to improper procedures of fumigating and cleansing the school.

"This gets very expensive. The Health Department is not paying for treatment anymore," Waterman said.

"By the time you have bought chemicals and cleaned your home, you have spent $30 to $40," she added.

Baldree claims, however, that the school has been fumigated at regular intervals and suggested the lice are being passed from person to person in other establishments.

"This parasite is carried by an infested person, and could be passed in a grocery store or a department store," Baldree said.

"There is also a massive effort nee PARENTS PICKET—PAGE 2

Commission wary of permit agency

By RICH ADAMS
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is continuing a study on the prospect of a tri-county regulatory agency to offer a one-stop permit service for waterfront businesses.

Executive Director William A. Davis told commission members Thursday he is trying to arrange a meeting of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson County Boards of Supervisors to discuss entering into a pact with the Harrison County Development Commission.

from the other regulatory agencies, such as the Air and Water Pollution Commission and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Waterman said another reason why he is reluctant to meet the deadline and fall under the direction of the regulatory agency is because he said HEDC's location in the Harrison County Courthouse is not ideal for what he said is a "one-stop" permit service.

"We would like the agency to be located in a more central location, such as the Hancock County Courthouse," Waterman said.

Waterman said the Hancock County Board of Supervisors is currently studying the possibility of a tri-county regulatory agency to offer a one-stop permit service for waterfront businesses.

PROTEST LEADER Mary Waterman, left, is the spokesman for some 11 women who are picketing Waveland Elementary School in protest of the way administrators are handling a head lice epidemic at the school. The parents claim Principal James Baldree did not notify them of the head lice problem until 12 days after it had been identified, and further allege that Baldree is not doing enough to curb the parasite. Baldree said Thursday that he is "doing everything possible" to eliminate the problem. Others participating in the protest include Diane Shelton, center, and Doris Bridges. (Staff photo-Rich Adams) stated dust from the plant is corrosive to automobiles and injurious to lungs.

Following the commission's unanimous vote to recommend against the zoning change, Marochino moved an 11-zoned area containing the old L&N Depot and lands adjacent to the depot be immediately changed to I1.

Commission Chairman Paul Vegas said in proposing a reduced speed limit on US-90, "When you have to observe a reduced speed upon entering a town it makes you more attentive."

Vegas said he feels US-90 is becoming 'too congested' to continue the 50 mile-per-hour limit currently posted.

He also noted Bay police have reported alarmingly high accident rates on US-90.

In other action, the commission recommended owners of fireworks sales trailers at US-90 near Second Street "are in violation of city ordinance."

Vegas said such trailers are allowable only as temporary structures while permanent structures are being built.

The commission also voted to seek an opinion from City Attorney Joseph Gex on legality and feasibility of placing speed bumps on residential city streets.

The action followed complaints passed on by Commission Member Donald Favre concerning speeders on Sunset Drive, a residential street heavily populated by children.

Commissioners noted they had asked for a traffic flow and control study some 12 months ago, but as yet have seen no action on the matter.

The study was to be made with an eye toward adjusting speed limits on the streets of the city.

The commission next meeting is at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, a joint gathering with the city council to consider the city's new zoning map.

STUCK IN THE SAND: Not the usual case of being stuck in the sand was Walter Asher's plight in the Waveland surf where his truck bogged down during a piling removal operation Wednesday. Efforts that evening to remove the vehicle with a county grader were unsuccessful, so Asher jacked up the front end to keep the engine out of high tide. District Four Supervisor Sam Pernicelli Thursday effected evacuation of the vehicle with a front-end loader. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

"I hope something good comes out of these ladies' protest," he added.

Waterman said she and her fellow picketers will stay on the line until something is done about the problem.

"We want the buses and classrooms fumigated and all the carpets and desks disinfected," she emphasized.

"A school board member was contacted two weeks ago, and she said yesterday she did not realize the problem was as bad as it is. She said she will try to resolve the problem today," she continued.

"The school board should fumigate all schools in the district. The children ride the same buses," Waterman said.

"Mr. Baldree said all the children were checked, but we know some who were not checked until yesterday," Diane Shelton, another protester said.

"We just want to know what the big secret was all about," she added.

The parents said they feel the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board should send out literature concerning lice to parents prior to the beginning of the school year.

"We also want competent people to screen our children for the lice. People in the school are checking one child's head and then screening another without washing their hands," Waterman said.

Baldree said one school nurse cannot handle the entire student body, and said teachers and staff members have attended workshops to become qualified in checking for the parasite.

"We are screening on a weekly basis now, but the school is not a health agency, we are primarily here as an educational institution," the principal said.

"Some parents are confused. Hopefully they will care for their children at home and help other families to restructure manufacturers which need water to transport materials because of size; and Manufacturers requiring water intake structure and effluent discharge structure.

"I can visualize a number of industries which are water dependant which are not on this list," Wehrs told the commission.

Wehrs also read a list of guidelines which limit the amount of waterfront loading space, limit the water depth, and limit future waterfront development.

Commission Member Dave McDonald said the guidelines are "purely common sense" and said a "semi-quasi-state agency" is not necessary to force adherence to that common sense.

Wehrs said the tri-county Port and Harbor Commissions were to meet Friday afternoon to discuss the matter further, and suggested the commission hold off any decision until members can further study the agency and its powers.

The board voted to take the matter under advisement until a recess meeting Oct. 25.

Also at Thursday's meeting, the commission director read a report from New World Research Inc., hired by the commission to determine if the proposed site for a Borg-Warner site in Port Bienville has cultural significance due to historical artifacts believed to be on the property.

New World Research reported "no evidence of significant cultural development was found in the area."

The report does, however, indicate "isolated finds," but claims the finds were discovered in a pile of dredging spoils.

"We feel it is useless to retain the designated sites, and there is no archaeological reason to delay construction," the report concludes.

The commission recessed the meeting until Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

to continuously monitor the Bay's quality.

"These studies are continuing," he added.

"The discharge to the Bay derives primarily from washing salts or neutralization from the finished pigment."

"Studies conducted in 1978, independent of any NDEP's permit, confirmed the waste water being discharged to the Bay is not a health hazard," Howard added.

Howard also said that the Bay's water quality is being monitored by the NDEP.

SPECIAL REPORT:

FBI Charter Legislation

During the last few weeks, my Senate Judiciary Committee has been conducting hearings on legislation to approve and implement a charter for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Although the FBI has been the main federal law enforcement agency for many years, there has never been a specific definition of its powers and authority approved by Congress.

This lack of legal authority has resulted in threats to the federal efforts to combat crime and protect American citizens from abuse by the criminal element.

There have also arisen new concerns that the Constitutional rights of Americans to privacy and freedom of expression and assembly are not adequately respected by certain law enforcement activities.

The FBI charter seeks to both strengthen the powers of the Bureau and protect citizens' rights.

To do this effectively, our Committee has been engaged in a careful review of the techniques and procedures the FBI is using to detect criminal activity and bring law violators to justice.

It has been my privilege to preside at some of these hearings as we heard testimony from representatives of the Department of Justice, FBI, legal community and citizen groups.

Because modern criminals now employ the most sophisticated, devious and imaginative schemes to accomplish their goals, equally effective measures must be authorized to combat them.

Specific procedures for using investigative techniques such as informants, undercover agents and electronic surveillance will be prescribed by the law under this new charter. Not only will this give the legal authority to the FBI to use these techniques, it will provide a new measure of protection to innocent citizens.

Access rights to documents and records held by institutions such as banks, insurance companies, and telephone companies will also be clearly defined. When necessary such vital sources of information can be used in an investigation but only after a showing is made to proper judicial or Justice Department officials that criminal activity has probably occurred.

Complex issues surround the infiltration of agents or informers into organizations and groups whose aims may be subversive or dangerous to U.S. citizens. Special problems associated with terrorist groups also exist.

Bearcats clobber Tigers

By RICH ADAMS

The Bay High Tigers suffered their third defeat in as many weeks as some 2,000 Long Beach spectators enjoyed their first homecoming victory in a number of years.

The Tigers fought until the final buzzer, but were not capable of withstanding the Bearcat offense, led by Signal-Caller Jim Nightingale, and were defeated 18-7.

"We are ready for this game. I believe we are up more for this game than ever before," Bay High Head Coach James "Snuffy" Smith said prior to the game.

Long Beach won the toss and elected to receive and were forced to punt following the opening series, giving the Tigers the ball on their own 32 yard line. Bay High lined up to punt on a fourth-and-one situation from their own 41, but Quarterback Chuck Benigno picked off the snap on a fake and returned the ball 59 yards along the sideline to score with 7:30 remaining in the first period.

Joe Cabaniss kicked a conversion, and the Tigers led in the catfight, 7-0.

The Bearcats seemed stunned after the Tigers had scored so easily, and two plays later Nightingale bobbled the ball and Brett Barrett pounced on the loose pigskin for the Tigers, first-and-ten on the Bearcat 19.

Alex Herrington lost three on an option pitch out, and Bruce Cain ran for a two yard gain.

Benigno was sacked for a loss of 10, and the Tigers faced a fourth-and-18 situation.

Cabaniss attempted a 34 yard field goal, and though the distance was there, the ball fell to the right of the uprights and the Bearcats took possession of the ball.

Nightingale began combining runs and arials, and was on a scoring drive when one of his passes was intercepted by Cain on the Bay High 28 yard line.

Again the Tigers moved to within scoring distance, but were forced back with a delay of game infraction.

Cabaniss again attempted to kick between the uprights, this time from 37 yards out, but the attempt was wide to the left.

Long Beach gained possession on the Tiger 20, but again were unable to get the offense rolling and punted.

Bay High, led all night by the scrambling and outside runs of Benigno, were again in Bearcat territory, but the ball was bobbled and recovered by David Butler of Long Beach.

The Bearcats began to threaten the Tigers as Nightingale ran for a 17 yard gain, and then switched to arials, but James Ware fumbled the ball on the Tiger eight yard line and Jeffery Smith recovered for Bay High to end the drive.

Bay High was hit with a clipping penalty and penalized half the distance to the goal, and following a Allen Proulx gain to the 19, the ball was again bobbled and Mark Scafile recovered the loose pigskin.

The fumble was made by Benigno as he attempted to throw the ball on his way down under the weight of a number of Bearcat defenders, and Coach Smith delayed the game for a period of time debating the fumble call with officials.

Charles Williams picked up seven yards to put the ball three yards from paydirt and then took a handoff from Nightingale to score with 4:08 remaining in the half.

Williams took a handoff from Nightingale to make a two point conversion attempt successful, and the Bearcats led 8-7.

Bay High was unable to move the ball, and was forced to punt after four plays.

Nightingale took the ball from his own 20 and hit Herbert Johnson with a flea flicker for a 14 yard gain and a first down, but the gain was nullified by a holding penalty against the Bearcats.

After a number of incomplete passes, Nightingale was forced to punt.

Bay High took the ball and ran for a first down on a Herrington pitch out, but time ran out and the Bearcats went to the lockerroom with a one-point lead.

The Bay High Tiger Pride Marching Band entertained spectators for the first part of the halftime, but the extravaganza came when the Bearcat Marching Band combined with the school choir to produce a "Tribute to America."

The halftime activity included a 50 yard human flag and fireworks.

When the game resumed, it was Long Beach's turn to hit early.

On the first play, Benigno fumbled the ball from the 20 and Rod Lyons of Long Beach recovered.

Long Beach was moving the ball, but a delay of game penalty placed them in a 4-20 situation from the 30 yard line.

Nightingale's 40 yard sidwinder conversion was good, and the Bearcats led 11-7.

Long Beach kicked off, and the Tigers began from their own 20 yard line.

Alternating between Van Fayard, Cain, and Proulx, the Tigers moved downfield. Harrington picked up a first down on a three yard romp.

Benigno was sacked for a loss of six, however, and the Tigers were forced to punt.

Long Beach scored again, this time on a broken plas as Williams ran for a 58 yard score.

Nightingale had bobbled the ball at the line of scrimmage and picked it up in time to hastily hand it to Williams as he came through the line.

Williams turned on the speed and tore for the sideline, scoring with 6:10 remaining in the third stanza.

Nightingale's conversion was good and the Bearcats ended up 18-7.

On the next series of play, Nightingale hit Danny Guin for a 17 yard gain and then threw to Jeff White for another 12 yards.

But as Nightingale went down a few plays later, he attempted a wild pass which was picked off by Fayard for Bay High.

Bay High, unable to move the ball, again called for a fake punt.

Benigno snatched the snap and went 20 yards for the first down.

Long Beach was hit with a pass interference infraction, and then Cain ran up 22 yards for yet another first down.

With the ball on the 27 yard line, Benigno scrambled for a few moments and fired to Cabaniss in the end zone for an apparent score.

Benigno, however, apparently threw the ball while beyond the line of scrimmage and the score was called back.

Cabaniss fell back to punt, but the Bearcat defense was not fooled by the fake this time.

Benigno's pass to Cabaniss was incomplete, and Long Beach took possession.

The Bearcats were again forced to punt after a short series, and the Tigers took the ball on the 32 yard line.

Bobby Waterman was sacked deep in the backfield by a fired up Bearcat defender, and Cabaniss punted.

Bay High, after an unsuccessful series, again desperately attempted a fake punt, but Proulx was downed at the line of scrimmage and the Bearcats took possession.

Kris Gaudier was put in to call signals for Long Beach, and swept around the left side for a gain of 14.

His next play, a pass, was picked off by Benigno and Bay High had a first-and-ten on their own two yard line.

Benigno hit Waterman for a gain of 16 and a first down, and then connected with Clark Breland for another seven yards.

The Tigers attempted another fake punt, but were stopped at the line of scrimmage.

A Long Beach personal foul gave the Tigers a second chance and a first down, but a Benigno pass was picked off by Ware on another fake punt.

Time ran out and the Tigers were defeated, 18-7.

Next week the tigers (2-3) travel to Vandaele, where they will face the Bulldogs (3-1).

Warriors defeat Rocks

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

St. Stanislaus lost their first conference football game 7 to 14 a gainst the quick, agile D'Iberville Warriors Friday night at Rockachaw Stadium.

First quarter

Stanislaus received the ball, gained a few yards and was forced to kick.

Following several plays, D'Iberville's Runningback Keith Higginbotham burst up the middle for a touchdown. The extra point was good and the Warriors moved ahead 7 to 0.

Before the game began, SSC Head Coach Barry Jones warned "Early scoring by the Warriors could demoralize the Rockachaws." But the Rock defense did not allow the Warriors to score another point in the first half.

SSC got the ball again but soon afterwards was forced to kick.

Acquiring possession of the ball, the Warriors tried running Higginbotham wide.

Higginbotham repeatedly and speedily ran wide earlier in the first quarter to gain substantial yardage, but this time the Rock defenders, who had apparently adjusted to D'Iberville's offensive style, tracked him down and toppled him before he could gain a yard.

SSC received the kick near their 20 yard line.

Rockachaw "tackle-breaking" Fullback Scottie Scott performed a brilliant 12-yard run giving the Rocks a first.

The SSC offense failed to maintain the drive however and was forced to kick.

Second quarter

Primarily punting, D'Iberville moved steadily forward from deep in temporarily, but not before SSC's Dave Boos tipped a pass almost claiming an interception.

The Warriors quarterback completed another pass, but when the quarterback went back again to pass, a crowd of SSC defenders exploded through the line for a sack.

SSC received the ball on their 32-yard line. The team attempted to move upfield but failed with each attempt including a severely underthrown pass to a Rock receiver.

D'Iberville crossed the goal line twice following SSC's weak drive, but each touchdown was voided because of penalties.

One penalty against a Warrior team member was called because "he drew unnecessary attention to himself," a referee stated.

Third quarter

The Warriors run up against an impenetrable Rock defense supported by off-the-field teammates shouting "defense! defense! defense!"

Energized, apparently by a Coach Jones motivation speech, the Rockachaw defense pounced on every Warrior that moved, forcing them to ultimately kick.

St. Stanislaus took the ball on about the 43-yard line. Halfback Keith Pfister began the drive upfield for the Rocks.

Pfister was given the ball again and went in for a first down. SSC's drive was slowed down by a penalty and they kicked.

The Warriors received the ball near their 14. After a couple of plays the Warriors moved out to their 20-yard line. SSC Tackle David Murtagh broke up the drive by recovering a fumble.

Stanislaus unsuccessfully tried to pass their way across the goal line. SSC's Juan Betanzos went back to kick for a field goal. He faked the kick, passed, but failed to connect.

The Warriors got the ball and began another drive upfield, unexpectedly Rockachaw's Dave Boos surfaced from a group of football players with the ball, following a tackle.

SSC plod toward the goal line, but a Stanislaus player fumbled and the Warriors resumed possession.

The Rocks defense held fast and the Warriors kicked.

Fourth quarter

SSC took the ball on their 44, Senner ran a whopping 16 yards for a first down.

Pfister followed with another gain, and Senner took the ball to the 8-yard line.

Senner, with the help of other Stanislaus offensive players, went in for the touch down. Betanzos kicked the extra point and the score was tied 7 to 7.

Eight minutes and 52 seconds remained in the fourth quarter.

The Warriors then began another passing drive, which was stopped by Dennis Scardino who recovered a fumble.

Stanislaus then fumbled, with the Warriors recovering on the Rocks 22-yard line.

Warrior Keith Richard then set his team up on the Rocks 5-yard line with a jumping catch. Bobby Weaver ran in for the touchdown. The extra point barely squeezed over the top goal post giving the game a final score of 14 to 7.

The Rocks are scheduled to play St. Martin there Oct. 19.

Yellow Jackets swarm butterfingers Pass

By EDGAR PEREZ

Pass High Pirates set the stage for their performance for the remainder of the evening Friday night against the St. Martin Yellow Jackets when they fumbled away the ball on their third play from scrimmage.

The Pirates fumbled nine times, recovering only one, and lost one pass in what turned into a rout leaving Pass on the short end of a 33-7 final score.

The Jackson County visitors to McDonald Stadium were quick to capitalize on Pirate errors, recovering one blocked punt in the end zone for a touchdown, and converting an end zone fumble into an instant six points.

In spite of the butterfingers which plagued them throughout the game, the Pirates looked good in the first half, going to the lockers leading 7-0.

"We played good football in the first half," Pass Coach Bob Lumpkin said, quickly qualifying that assessment with "And in the second half we did not do one single thing right."

"We fumbled the ball all over the football field," he admitted.

Lumpkin noted none of the Yellow Jackets scoring drives were longer than 30 yards.

"Our defense looked good-if we could eliminate our offensive mistakes we could beat any team in the conference or on the Coast for that matter," Lumpkin stated.

"We moved the ball all over the field," Lumpkin said, "but we couldn't keep it."

By the end of the first half, Pass was leading 7-0.

The Pirates' first scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' second scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' third scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' fourth scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' fifth scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' sixth scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' seventh scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' eighth scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' ninth scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' tenth scoring drive came in the second quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

Lumpkin, in his second year at the Pirate helm, is optimistic about his small but scrappy and determined band.

"Our kids keep trying—they never quit. We've got a good team, they stick together, they hustle," Lumpkin added.

Lumpkin described tailback John Pat Swanner as "definitely an asset."

"He probably had the best game of everybody Friday."

Swanner kicked the Pirates extra point after Snokey Swanner executed some fancy stepping to stay in bounds on a six yard run in the second quarter.

Pirate Dwight Dedeaux stopped one jacket threat in the second quarter with a smashing tackle which caused a St. Martin receiver to lose the ball. Officials ruled the pass incomplete.

The Jackets got rolling offensively in the third quarter after quarterback Jeff Webb scored on a one-yard sneak.

David Hardy made the conversion. Back Keith Webb scored the Jackets second touchdown, and Hardy added another extra point.

Still in the third period, Scott Deconen recovered that blocked punt in the Pass end zone. The Pirates were now leading 14-7.

The Pirates' first scoring drive came in the third quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' second scoring drive came in the third quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' third scoring drive came in the third quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

The Pirates' fourth scoring drive came in the third quarter when they recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, and converted it into a six-point lead.

Eight minutes and 52 seconds remained in the fourth quarter. The Warriors then began another passing drive, which was stopped by Dennis Scardino who recovered a fumble. Stanislaus then fumbled, with the Warriors recovering on the Rocks 22-yard line. Warrior Keith Richard then set his team up on the Rocks 5-yard line with a jumping catch. Bobby Weaver ran in for the touchdown. The extra point barely squeezed over the top goal post giving the game a final score of 14 to 7. The Rocks are scheduled to play St. Martin there Oct. 19.

Stanislaus took the ball on about the 43-yard line. Halfback Keith Pfister began the drive upfield for the Rocks. Pfister was given the ball again and went in for a first down. SSC's drive was slowed down by a penalty and they kicked. The Warriors received the ball near their 14. After a couple of plays the Warriors moved out to their 20-yard line. SSC Tackle David Murtagh broke up the drive by recovering a fumble. Stanislaus unsuccessfully tried to pass their way across the goal line. SSC's Juan Betanzos went back to kick for a field goal. He faked the kick, passed, but failed to connect. The Warriors got the ball and began another drive upfield, unexpectedly Rockachaw's Dave Boos surfaced from a group of football players with the ball, following a tackle. SSC plod toward the goal line, but a Stanislaus player fumbled and the Warriors resumed possession. The Rocks defense held fast and the Warriors kicked. Fourth quarter SSC took the ball on their 44, Senner ran a whopping 16 yards for a first down. Pfister followed with another gain, and Senner took the ball to the 8-yard line. Senner, with the help of other Stanislaus offensive players, went in for the touch down. Betanzos kicked the extra point and the score was tied 7 to 7. Eight minutes and 52 seconds remained in the fourth quarter. The Warriors then began another passing drive, which was stopped by Dennis Scardino who recovered a fumble. Stanislaus then fumbled, with the Warriors recovering on the Rocks 22-yard line. Warrior Keith Richard then set his team up on the Rocks 5-yard line with a jumping catch. Bobby Weaver ran in for the touchdown. The extra point barely squeezed over the top goal post giving the game a final score of 14 to 7. The Rocks are scheduled to play St. Martin there Oct. 19.

Music described as harmonious voice of creation

"Music is the harmonious voice of creation; an echo of the invisible world; one note of the divine concord which the entire universe is destined one day to sound," said by Mozart.

In an old book, "Bob and Alf Taylor - Their Lives and Lectures" is found about the most inspiring and beautiful description of music that I have ever heard or read.

"I heard a great master play on the wondrous violin. His bow quivered like the wing of a bird; in every quiver there was a melody, and every melody breathed a thought in language sweeter than was ever uttered by human tongue. I was enraptured, was mesmerized by his music. I thought I fell asleep under its power and was rapt into the realm of visions and dreams.

"The enchanted violin broke out into tumult, and through the rifted shadows in my dream I thought I saw an ocean lashed into fury. The wing of the storm-god brooded above it, dark and lowering with night and tempest and war. In the music of the violin I heard the shriek of the angry hurricane, the loud ratling musketry of rain and hail, and the louder and deadlier crash and roar of the red artillery on high. Its rumbling batteries, unlimbered on the vapory heights and manned by the fiery gunners of the storm, boomed their volleying thunder to the terrible rhythm of the strife below. And in every stroke of the bow the fierce lightning leaped down from their dark pavilion of cloud and, like armed eagles of light, flashed their trenchant blades among the phantom squadrons marshaling for battle on the field of the deep."

Music, good music, moves us and we know not why. We feel emotion, we feel the tears but cannot realize their source. The mood changes. Again I quote from the book about Bob and Alf Taylor:

"There was a shifting of the bow. The storm died away in the distance and the morning broke in floods of glory. Then the violin revived and poured out its sweetest soul. In its music I heard the rustle of a thousand joyous wings and a burst of song from a thousand joyous throats. Mocking birds and linnets thrilled the glad air with their warblings; goldfinches, thrushes and bobolinks trilled their happiest tunes, and the oriole sang a lullaby to her hanging cradle that rocked in the wind. I heard the twitter of skimming swallows and the scattered covey's piping call. I heard the robin's gay whistle, the croaking crows, the scolding of blue-jays and the melancholy cooing of a dove.

"The swaying treetops seemed vocal with bird songs while the violinist played; and the labyrinth of leafy shade echoed back the chorus. THEN the violin sounded the hunter's horn, and the deep-mouthed pack of fox hounds opened loud and wild, far in the rining woods, and it was like the music of a hundred chiming bells."

Congreve said, "Music has charms to soothe a savage beast, to soften rocks, and bend the knotted oak."

And Pope said, "Music resembles poetry; in each are numerous graces which no methods teach, and which no master hand alone can reach."

Now I continue another excerpt from "The Lives and Lectures" of Bob and Alf Taylor:

"There was a tremor in the bow, and I heard a flute play, and a harp, and a golden-mouthed cornet; I heard the mirthful babble of happy voices and peals of laughter coming in the swelling tide of pleasure; then I saw a vision of snowy arms, voluptuous forms of light, fantastic, slippered feet, all whirling and floating in the masses of the misty dance.

"The flying fingers now tripped upon the trembling strings like fairy feet dancing on the nodding violets, and the music glided into a still sweeter strain. The violin told a story of human life."

"Two lovers strayed beneath the elms and oaks, and down by the river's side, where daffodils and pansies blend and smile to rippling waves, and there, under the bloom of incense-breathing bowers, under the sound of humming bees and splashing waters there the old, old story so old and yet so new, conceived in heaven, first told in Eden, and then handed down through the ages—was told over and over again." "Ah, those downward-drooping eyes, that mantling blush, that trembling hand and meek suppression pressed, that fluttering heart, that heaving breast, that whispered 'yes,' wherein a heaven lies—how well they told of victory won and Paradise regained."

"If you would make your home happy, you must make the children happy. Get down on the floor with your prattling boys and girls and play horse with them; don't kick up and tuck but be a good and gentle old steed, and join in a hearty horse laugh in their merriment; take the baby on your knee and gallop him to town, let him practice gymnastics on top of your head and take your scalp; let him puncture a hole in your ear with his little teeth and bite the end of your paternal nose."

"Make your homes beautiful with your duty and your love; make them bright with your mirth and your music; I would rather dwell in a log cabin in the beautiful land where I was born and reared, and sit at its humble hearthstone at night, and in the firelight play the humble rural tunes on my fiddle to my happy children, and bask in the smiles of my sweet wife, than to be the greatest general or the highest politician."

"Music calls back the happy days of childhood, and the music brings back other memories. I heard the watch dog's honest bark, the guinea's merry 'potrack' and the rooster's crow. I heard the din of happy voices in the big house and the sizz and songs of boiling kettles in the kitchen....The fiddle, the rifle, the ax and the Bible—the paladium of American liberty, symbolizing music, prowess, labor, and free religion, the four grand forces of our civilization—were the trusty friends and faithful allies or our pioneer ancestry in subduing the wilderness and erecting this great country."

"Wherever a son of freedom pushed his perilous way into the savage wilds and erected his log cabin, these were the panacea of his humble domicile—the rifle in the rack above the door, the ax in the corner, the bible on the table, and the fiddle, with its streamers of ribbon, hanging on the wall. Did he need the charm of music to charm his heart, to scatter sunshine and drive away melancholy thoughts?"

"He touched the responsive string of his fiddle and it burst into laughter. Was he beset by skulking savages or prowling beasts of prey? He rushed to his deadly rifle for protection and relief. Had he the forests to fell and the fields to clear?"

"His trusty ax was in his stalwart grasp. Did he need the consolation, the promises and precepts of religion to strengthen his faith, to brighten his hope and anchor his soul to God and Heaven? He held sweet communion with the dear old Bible."

There is much more than I do not have the time for.

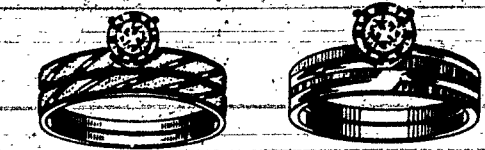

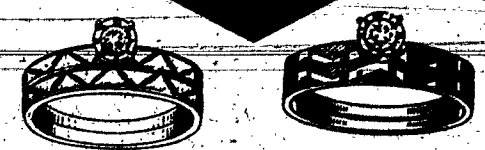

Truly... an unbelievable buy!

MISSISSIPPI MARKET NEWS

MARKET STRATEGIES FOR YOUR SOYBEAN CROP

With volatile swings in soybean prices, simple selling techniques may not work. For instance, chances are 4 to 1 the year's lowest price will come at harvest.

If you always sell soybeans out of the field at harvest, you'll likely hit the year's lowest price 8 years out of 10. Flexibility is the key. You have to use different selling strategies to fit changing market conditions. "Soybean Digest" recently prepared a summary of four techniques you can use to sell your beans ahead of harvest.

FORWARD CASH CONTRACT is most widely known and used. You sign a contract with your buyer to deliver a certain number of bushels or acres of soybeans on a specific date at a specific price.

Advantages: It's simple. If you get the contract in writing, it's legally binding. You can force the buyer to fulfill the contract. Buyer can do the same to you.

It eliminates financial transactions associated with use of futures. These include financing margin calls—putting up more money to maintain your position in the futures market if the market moves against your position.

It eliminates any more marketing decisions concerning those bushels of soybeans. Since you're locked in, you can't change your mind. For some, this reduction in decision-making is an advantage.

Disadvantages: You're locked in. If the market moves up strongly, you must deliver those soybeans at the lower, contract price.

You have no choice on basis. Basis is the price difference between your local cash price and a futures contract traded on the Chicago Board of Trade. If the price difference is wide, the market is taking a wide discount to cover transportation and storage costs.

Your goal is to capture some of that discount. But forward cash contract reduces that possibility. You have to accept the basis reflected in the contract's flat cash price the day you sign the contract.

DELAYED PRICING is heavily concentrated in the Eastern Corn Belt. But the technique is spreading rapidly.

It allows producers who don't have storage to keep control of their soybeans well past harvest. You deliver soybeans to the elevator and agree to fix price for those beans later. Usually there is a date by which you must set the price.

Advantages: You deliver soybeans at your convenience. You do not need storage. You have a longer selling period.

Disadvantages:

You become a creditor of the elevator or buyer. If they declare bankruptcy, you'll stand at the end of the line for final payoff. Chances of getting all your money back are slim.

BASIS CONTRACTS are a variation of delayed pricing. You deliver soybeans to your buyers and stipulate the price discount you'll take the day you fix price on your beans.

Advantages are the same as with delayed pricing. However, you gain one advantage—you eliminate loss you might have faced from basis widening. That's because with a basis contract, you set basis.

When future price increases, buyer's price to you must also increase to maintain the basis in your contract. Without a contract, you fail to capture the increase.

But, with basis contract, you still face the disadvantage of being a creditor of your buyer. HEDGING, simply put, is when you sell a future contract in the futures market to offset soybeans you are growing.

Later, when you sell the soybeans you grew, you buy back your futures contract. Any change in the cash price should be offset by change in the futures price.

Advantages:

It increases your market flexibility since you sell your crop and buy it back if market conditions change.

It extends your selling season. The November 1979 futures contract is the first contract you can use to hedge your growing crop. It started trading in early October, 1978.

The last contract you can use to hedge your growing crop is the August 1980 contract. This gives you a 22-month selling season.

It lets you capture basis gain. If prices appear attractive to you on the futures but price discount is unusually wide, you sell futures. That way you capture the good price but don't give away anything to the cash market.

which is asking a high premium for transportation and storage.

Later, when price discount narrows to a reasonable level, you buy back futures contract and sell your cash soybeans. If prices have gone down, you have gained the drop in futures plus narrowing in basis.

Disadvantages: You must have margin money ready in order to maintain your position.

You must have discipline to avoid speculating in another market.

You must develop marketing skills in another market—one you probably haven't used before.

DR. L. S. WALKER
DO YOU WANT YOUR CHILD TO BE AN OUTLAW? If that's what you want, here are some ways to bring it to pass.

Begin from infancy to give your child everything he wants. In this way, he will grow up to believe that the world owes him a living.

When he picks up bad words, laugh at him. It will encourage him to add "cutes" phrases that will embarrass you later on end.

Never give him any spiritual training or example. Be sophisticated about it and wait until he is 21 and let him decide for himself. Don't be "old-fashioned" about the God-given responsibility for your child's proper upbringing.

Avoid the use of the word "wrong." It may "develop a guilt-complex." This will condition him to believe later, when he is arrested for stealing a car, that society is against him and he is being persecuted.

Wait on him hand-and-foot. Pick up everything he leaves lying around - books, shoes, clothes, etc. Do everything for him so that he will be experienced in throwing responsibility onto others.

Let him read any printed matter he (or she) can get their hands on, no matter how vulgar or obscene. Be careful that his silverware and drinking glasses are sterilized, but let his mind feed on garbage.

Quarrel frequently in the presence of your children. Then they won't be shocked when the home is finally broken up.

Give the child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as tough as you had them?

Satisfy his every craving for food, drink and comfort. See that every desire is gratified. Denial may lead to harmful frustration.

Always take his part against the neighbors, teachers and policemen. This will cause him to feel that they are all prejudice against him anyway.

When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I never could do anything with him." Then prepare for a life of grief and worry - you will have it!

Listen to what the Bible has to say about you - and your child's upbringing:

"Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Prov. 22:1).

The rod of reproof give wisdom; but a child left to himself bringeth his mother shame" (Prov. 29:15).

Much, if not most, of the crime and lesser evils our children are caught up in today, can be blamed with failure on the part of parents.

"And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but BRING THEM UP in the nurture and admonition of the Lord" (Eph. 6:4). An ounce of example is worth a ton of advice!

Mothers and Dads, God gave you your precious children in sacred trust. Have you demonstrated the courage and care commensurate to such a trust?

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Reluctant to ask
Q. I was born and brought up in a Christian home. As a matter of fact, I don't remember when I wasn't a Christian. I believe in Jesus Christ and His teachings and try to live them. In light of this, the question I want to ask may seem odd and what I'm reluctant to ask. But what do they mean by a "Born Again Christian"? Am I missing something?

A. Simply, the meaning of "Born Again" is to give yourself completely to the will of God, place your faith in Jesus Christ and follow him in every aspect of your life. It is to even more sincerely live the Christlike life.

Since you say that you are doing that now, add to that a strong and vibrant belief that you are spiritually reborn, and do not give in to troubling doubts.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet, "The Power to Change Your Life," which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Worried about visits
Q. I am a junior in college, a 19-year-old female, and I have a male friend who is 20 years old. He has been asking me to come to his room, but I won't. He comes to my room all the time. I am worried. What should I do?

A. Better both stay out of each other's room or you'll have cause to be more worried. You can handle the young man's demands by just telling him, "Nothing doing," and sticking to it. Then if you are sufficiently enjoyable and attractive otherwise, he will like you all right. If he doesn't, so what? There are other pebbles on the beach.

USM archeologists study structure

Ocean Springs' Old Spanish Fort survives Frederic's rage

INDIAN PIPE—From clay the men made pipes and the women made household utensils, such as bowls and pots, the pipes were untempered so they were more fragile. Padgett found this one on the left in two pieces and he doesn't know if it was a ceremonial or personal pipe. On the right is how USM Public Relations art director Sissie Myrick and Padgett think the pipe might have looked when the Biloxi or Pascagoula brave finished it.

By MARK LEGGETT

The oldest standing structure in the Mississippi Valley which was directly in the path of Hurricane Frederic was unscathed by the most recent hurricane to strike Mississippi.

The Old Spanish Fort in Pascagoula, about 260 years old, has weathered yet another blast of Gulf weather at its worst. Some of the nearby trees were broken or uprooted.

Minor damage occurred to the concrete porch on the west side when a tree was pulled up by the roots took some of the concrete with it.

The following story about archeological investigation at the fort, though not intended to, appeared in the Pascagoula, Mississippi Press Tuesday, Sept. 11 before the storm came ashore at the Mississippi-Alabama state line Wednesday night.

Titled "Hurricane, Armies and Archeologists: Old Spanish Fort 1718(?) - 1779" the story was written for the program of the University of Southern Mississippi-University of Cincinnati football game Sept. 15.

Late in the 17th century the French were determined to keep the English and Spanish from expanding their colonies westward and controlling the American continent. The French had already staked out Canada as theirs and a Frenchman had descended the Mississippi River and claimed it for Louis XIV.

But claiming all the soil drained by the great river and controlling it were two very different matters. The French decided a fort was needed near the mouth of the Mississippi to defend the third of America they claimed.

The men chosen to lead the expedition were the two brothers Le Moyne, Sieurs Bienville and D'Arville. A Canadian naval officer accompanied them. He was Simon De la Pointe soon to become a major officer in the new colony. The year was 1699.

When the French decided to protect their holdings they chose a spot between the Biloxi and Pascagoula Rivers, near what is now Ocean Springs, to build a fort. De la Pointe received a grant of land on the east bank of the Pascagoula in 1715 to raise cattle.

De la Pointe intended to stay. He used the Biloxi building materials to construct a small, rectangular, cypress, cedar, pine and mud and plaster building, one of the earliest of its kind in the area.

That building is still standing, although it has been damaged by hurricanes. It is a small, rectangular, cypress, cedar, pine and mud and plaster building, one of the earliest of its kind in the area.

Mississippi Sound. Others pounded the coast in 1733, 1740, and a severe hurricane scored a direct hit on the banks of the Pascagoula in 1772.

The 1722 storm struck hardest at the De la Pointe home, then belonging to the settler's son-in-law named Krebs. The French had been forced to give up control of the Coast in 1763 to the English, who left eight years after the storm.

Most of the French colonial families remained undisturbed by the English but after them came the Spanish, who had seen more Gulf weather than any other group and knew a well-built house when they saw one.

This 18-year Spanish military occupation gives the outbuilding of the De la Pointe-Krebs plantation, its name - The Old Spanish Fort. The building remained in the Krebs family till 1914.

In 1940 the property came to be owned by the county and it was also about then that the fort was first seriously studied during the Historic American Buildings Survey conducted by the Works Projects Administration (WPA).

A serious archeological investigation of the site had never been attempted, that is until this past summer, when members of the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Sociology and Anthropology began delving into the past of the building, said to be the oldest structure between the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains.

The archeological work was directed by USM Research Archeologist Tom Padgett, who was assisted by students Anne Landrum and Pam Rutan. The three were plagued by rains but spent about 15 days actually digging during July.

Seven carefully excavation pits were dug: four inside, two on the porch and one in the yard.

"We would have done more in the yard if it hadn't been for the rain," Padgett said, "so we concentrated on working inside, being careful not to weaken the whole structure by undermining the walls."

Historians have speculated that the building was used as a toolshed or a carpenter's or a blacksmith's shop. The building may have been part of a fortified complex with a palisade.

The USM team mainly concentrated on locating precious objects, walls and foundations.

The building, as it now stands, has been greatly damaged by hurricanes. The original was smaller, more symmetrical, but shaped like a gun.

One of the most interesting finds was a small, rectangular, cypress, cedar, pine and mud and plaster building, one of the earliest of its kind in the area.

of an Indian pipe. "We don't know if this was a ceremonial pipe or a private for an individual Indian. The making of pipes was a highly individualistic process, each man had his own design and markings," the archeologist said.

European items found included a hand-wrought iron spike which Padgett said may have been used to hold something to the masonry wall.

The biggest thrill for the group was discovering gun flints in the area underneath the lowest floor. Of the three found, two were for old flintlock muskets and one may have been used in a flintlock pistol.

Flint deposits in Europe were used for centuries until they were depleted and it is often possible to tell where a particular kind of flint came from by its color and composition. "These came from France or Holland," he said. Hand made bricks found in the one excavation in the yard may have been used to hold a cistern to catch rain water, or he speculated, "it may have been from a patio or walkway."

Finding the Indian and European objects at about the same level suggested several possibilities to the archeologist: the house may have been built on the site of a recently abandoned or seasonal Indian village; the residents of the house may have used Indian-made housewares; or there may have been Indians living alongside the La Pointe and Krebs as was common with the Coastal Indians.

One of the reasons so many of the recovered items, especially the bones, were in such good condition was because of the six inch thick 20th Century concrete floor then the underlying oyster shell-cement floor had to be broken through to get to the dirt underneath.

"We had fair success in locating changes in the walls and foundations revealing that part of all of the structure was re-built; the hurricane in the late 18th century may have been responsible for damaging the original building," Padgett said.

"The building style is from the 1700's similar to the French style log cabin, but tabby, an oyster shell concrete mix, instead of logs fill the timbered frame."

"I'd say it is certainly one of the oldest structures in between the Rocky and Appalachian Mountains," Padgett replied when asked if the claim that the fort is the latest assault upon the fort by man and nature but like most of the others it was not too much for the toolshed, that became a fort, then a home, to stand.

YOU AND YOUR PET

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M., Manager of Veterinary Services, Norden Laboratories

WHEN YOUR PET COMES INTO HEAT

The only foolproof method of preventing unwanted puppies or kittens is to have your pet spayed. An alternate method is to recognize the signs of a pet "in season" or "in heat" so you can keep the cat or dog safely confined until the mating period is past.

Female dogs coming into heat signal their condition in several ways. They are friskier and want to spend more time out of doors. Their eating habits and elimination patterns may change, and the vulva (the external genital organ) will swell slightly.

As the estrus or heat cycle continues, the female releases a bloody discharge for approximately one week. During this period, you might consider confining the dog in a room where it will not stain furniture or carpeting.

As the discharge lessens, the female dog becomes highly receptive to breeding. This is the most critical time for confinement. If you do not want puppies, the female should be kept in the house or firmly leashed when walked outside.

A female in heat should not be left alone in a fenced yard, as she may dig out, or a determined male may jump in. You can relax your guard during the third week of heat, as the female's sexual inclinations fade away.

Dogs become sexually mature between six and twelve months of age, with the smaller breeds maturing earliest.

Many animals are fertile during the first heat period and will conceive if mated, although it is not recommended. Dogs bred during their first estrous cycle may be physically immature and encounter problems during pregnancy or delivery.

Cat owners must be more vigilant than dog owners since cats will pass into heat several times during the year, especially during the spring and fall months.

There are few physical signs of estrus in the cat, so most cat fanciers watch for changes in the pet's behavior.

Like dogs, cats in heat want to roam outdoors. They become very vocal, and call in a plaintive tone to other cats in the neighborhood.

Siamese and some other breeds will yowl almost continually. While in season, female cats will repeatedly roll and squirm on carpets, the grass grounds.

You can expect your cat to become fertile during the first six months of her life.

When you are successful in preventing unwanted litters, you will be helping the pet and the breed.

Ocean Springs' Old Spanish Fort survives Frederic's rage

INDIAN PIPE—From clay the men made pipes and the women made household utensils, such as bowls and pots, the pipes were untempered so they were more fragile. Padgett found this one on the left in two pieces and he doesn't know if it was a ceremonial or personal pipe. On the right is how USM Public Relations art director Slatte Myrick and Padgett think the pipe might have looked when the Biloxi or Pascagoula brave finished it.

By MARK LEGGETT
The oldest standing structure in the Mississippi Valley which was directly in the path of Hurricane Frederic was unscathed by the most recent hurricane to strike Mississippi.

The Old Spanish Fort in Pascagoula, about 260 years old, has weathered yet another blast of Gulf weather at its worst. Some of the nearby trees were broken or uprooted.

Minor damage occurred to the concrete porch on the west side when a tree was pulled up by the roots took some of the concrete with it.

The following story about archeological investigation at the fort, though not intended to, appeared in the Pascagoula, Mississippi Press Tuesday, Sept. 11 before the storm came ashore at the Mississippi-Alabama state line Wednesday night.

Titled "Hurricane, Armies and Archeologists: Mississippi's Old Spanish Fort 1718 (?) - 1979" the story was written for the program of the University of Southern Mississippi-Alabama football game Sept. 15.

Late in the 17th century the French were determined to keep the English and Spanish from expanding their colonies westward and controlling the American continent.

The French had already staked out Canada as theirs and a Frenchman had descended the Mississippi River and claimed it for Louis XIV.

But claiming all the area drained by the great river, and controlling it were two very different matters. The French decided a fort was needed near the mouth of the Mississippi to defend the third of America they claimed.

The men chosen to lead the expedition were the two brothers Le Moyne, Sieurs Bienville and D'Iberville. A Canadian naval officer accompanied them. "We was Simon De la Pointe soon to become a major officer of the new colony. The year was 1680.

When the French decided to protect their holdings they chose a spot between the Biloxi and Pascagoula Rivers, near what is now Ocean Springs, to build a fort. De la Pointe received a grant of land on the east bank of the Pascagoula in 1715 to raise cattle.

De la Pointe intended to stay. He used the fort as a building materials available oyster shell, cypress, cedar, mud and that was the original building. The original was smaller, more symmetrical, but shape and condition was revealed that the entire structure was built about 1718-1720.

Over the years the fort has been used for many purposes, each because of the Indians. The English used it as a trading post, the Spanish as a military installation, and the French as a settlement.

Others have found it a place of refuge, a place of worship, and a place of commerce. The fort has been a part of many different cultures and has survived through centuries of change.

Mississippi Sound. Others pounded the coast in 1733, 1740, and a severe hurricane scored a direct hit on the banks of the Pascagoula in 1772.

The 1772 storm struck hardest at the De la Pointe home, then belonging to the settler's son-in-law named Krebs. The French had been forced to give up control of the Coast in 1763 to the English, who left eight years after the storm.

Most of the French colonial families remained undisturbed by the English, but after them came the Spanish, who had seen more Gulf weather than any other group and knew a well-built house when they saw one.

This 15-year Spanish military occupation gives the outbuilding of the De la Pointe-Krebs plantation, its name - The Old Spanish Fort. The building remained in the Krebs family till 1914.

In 1940 the property came to be owned by the county and it was also about then that the fort was first seriously studied during the Historic American Buildings Survey conducted by the Works Projects Administration (WPA).

A serious archeological investigation of the site had never been attempted, that is until this past summer, when members of the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Sociology and Anthropology began delving into the past of the building, said to be the oldest structure between the Appalachian and Rocky Mountains.

The archeological work was directed by USM Research Archeologist Tom Padgett, who was assisted by students Anne Landrum and Pam Rutan. The three were plagued by rains but spent about 15 days actually digging during July.

Seven carefully excavation pits were dug: four inside, two on the porch and one in the yard.

"We would have done more in the yard if it hadn't been for the rain," Padgett said, "so we concentrated on working inside, being careful not to weaken the whole structure by undermining the walls."

Historians have speculated that the building was used as a toolshed or a carpenter's or a blacksmith's shop. The building may have been part of a fortified complex with a pillbox.

The team mainly concentrated on locating the original building materials available oyster shell, cypress, cedar, mud and that was the original building. The original was smaller, more symmetrical, but shape and condition was revealed that the entire structure was built about 1718-1720.

Over the years the fort has been used for many purposes, each because of the Indians. The English used it as a trading post, the Spanish as a military installation, and the French as a settlement.

either France or Holland," he said. Hand made bricks found in the one excavation in the yard may have been used to hold a cistern to catch rain water, or he speculated, "It may have been from a patio or walkway."

Finding the Indian and European objects at about the same level suggested several possibilities to the archeologist: the house may have been built on the site of a recently abandoned or seasonal Indian village; the residents of the house may have used Indian-made housewares; or there may have been Indians living alongside the La Pointe and Krebs as was common with the Coastal Indians.

One of the reasons so many of the recovered items, especially the bones, were in such good condition was because of the six inch thick 20th Century concrete floor then the underlying oyster shell cement floor had to be broken through to get to the dirt underneath.

"We had fair success in locating changes in the walls and foundations revealing that part of all of the structure was re-built; the hurricane in the late 18th century may have been responsible for damaging the original building," Padgett said.

"The building style is from the 1700's similar to the French style log cabin, but tabby, an oyster shell concrete mix, instead of logs fill the timbered frame."

"I'd say it is certainly one of the oldest structures in between the Rocky and Appalachian Mountains," Padgett replied when asked if the claim that the fort is the latest assault upon the fort by man and nature but like most of the others it was not too much for the toolshed, that became a fort, then a home, to stand.
